

Anna Gotts

Call: 2001

agotts@7kbw.co.uk

“Anna has an excellent technical knowledge of insurance, coupled with an impressive work ethic. Nothing is too much trouble, and no stone is left unturned. Her written advice is careful, and her judgement is good. Insurers rightly turn to her for advice, with several firms sending her work which normally go to a junior silk. One to watch in the years to come.”

Insurance and Reinsurance, Legal 500 2025

where she is recognised as a leading junior.

Anna is instructed across a wide variety of commercial disputes and undertakes a broad range of advocacy and advisory work, both on her own and as a junior. She has appeared in the Privy Council, the Court of Appeal, the Commercial Court, county courts and in many international arbitrations (including LMAA, LCIA and ICC).

Anna’s highlighted cases include Quadra Commodities S.A. v XL Insurance Company SE [2022] EWHC 431 (Comm), [2023] EWCA Civ 432 (both at first instance and in the Court of Appeal), now the leading case on insurable interest; Galantis (Respondent) v Alexiou and another (Appellants) (Bahamas) [2019] 1 WLR 3636, an appeal to the Privy Council concerning the scope of the oppression remedy; Mamancochet Mining Ltd v Aegis Managing Agency Ltd (and others) [2018] 2 Lloyd’s Rep. 441, an expedited insurance claim arising out of US sanctions against Iran; and Aircraft Purchase Fleet Limited v Compagnia Aerea Italiana S.p.A. [2018] EWHC 3315 (Comm), an aviation dispute involving the former operator of the Alitalia airline.

Anna was also instructed by contingent all risks insurers in preparation for the 2024 mega-trial involving stranded Russian aircraft (Merx Aviation Servicing Ltd v Chubb European Group SE and Others) and is currently representing Reed Smith LLP in well-publicised proceedings involving a sanctioned shipping entity and Barclays Bank Plc.

Anna is described in the Legal 500 as ‘ferociously intelligent’ and ‘very hard-working’ with a ‘strong eye for detail’. She has an ‘excellent technical knowledge of insurance coupled with an impressive work ethic’ and provides ‘clear, practical advice’ whilst being ‘able to think quickly and deal with changing circumstances both on paper and at court.’ She is ‘One to watch in the years to come’.

Insurance & Reinsurance

Anna is a leading insurance junior who is regularly instructed in high-profile insurance disputes. She has a loyal following of solicitors who routinely seek her advice on aspects of coverage and validity across a variety of policies. Described as having an 'excellent technical knowledge coupled with an impressive work ethic', Anna has gained an impressive familiarity with the sort of complex commercial issues that underlie many insurance disputes including sanctions, corporate frauds, tax avoidance schemes, pensions mis-selling, IPOs, de-SPACs and repo transactions (among others). She regularly advises upon the scope of coverage and exclusion clauses, upon the application of claims conditions and upon issues of aggregation, allocation, subrogation and avoidance. She is also frequently instructed in cases involving brokers' negligence.

In recent months, Anna has been instructed in property insurance disputes arising out of the seizure of property by the Taliban and liability insurance disputes arising out of well-known corporate frauds, as well as cases involving HMRC disputes and adverse FOS decisions. She was instructed by contingent all risks insurers in preparation for the mega-trial involving stranded Russian aircraft (Merx Aviation Servicing Limited v Chubb European Group SE and others) and enjoyed recent success before the Court of Appeal in Quadra Commodities SA v XL Insurance Company SE and others, now the leading case on insurable interest.
